

Week in Review: This week I got a good amount of my fantasy football calculator finished. I changed quite a few things. My plans in the beginning of the week were to find a way to incorporate some arrays into it. I did not get a chance to use the arrays I wanted to, but I did get everything else in the calculator finished and working correctly. I worked on this weeks project some of Saturday and about six hours on Sunday. I referenced my SDI notes frequently which helped greatly.